FROM THE PIONEERS OF
BIKANERI BHUJIA
FOR OVER 200 YEARS

Bhikharam Chandmal

Bhikharam Chandmal has a rich culinary heritage that goes back over two centuries. The family takes immense pride and joy in preserving the traditions that have defined the taste of their Bhujia over the years. While some modern conveniences have found their way into the kitchen, the ingredients and the dedication to serve sumptuous, high quality Indian snacks, sweets, and savouries, remain unchanged.

The company is transitioning 200 years of traditions, experience, and a flair for delivering the best, into a modern avatar which connects with evolved sensibilities. Everyone from Bhikharam Chandmal family lives by the philosophy, “Enjoying good food is a celebration of life.”

With this belief they continue to serve authentic delicacies every day with a healthy dollop of joy and the love for good taste.

Bikaner. Rajasthan to the World

Rajasthan is replete with a rich heritage of history and traditions. It's diverse culture, bearing influences of its varied erstwhile rulers, is steeped in colours. It is home to awe-inspiring monuments, majestic forts, opulent palaces, lively folk dances, captivating handicrafts, and delectable delicacies that are unique to the region. The cuisine of Rajasthan is heavily influenced by its geography, and a history that's seen more than its fair share of wars.

Bikaner is a shining star on the culinary landscape of Rajasthan, made famous by the iconic Bikaneri Bhujia. It is an important cultural centre that hosts some of the most vibrant local festivals such as the Camel Festival, Gangaur Festival, and Kolyat Fair. Rajasthan is an elaborate tapestry of festivals, food, culture, history, and dance and music, that's perfectly interwoven with its legendary hospitality. Every characteristic of Rajasthani culture is colourful, vibrant, and packed with enthusiasm, truly making it the Cultural Capital of India.
